“Peace is its own reward.”

May 2, 2019

Dear St. Stans' Families:

While it is not tangible, isn't delightful to think of being rewarded with peace? Peace of mind, peace in our communities, peace in the world. That intangible thing is very much worth working for and knowing it truly begins with each and every individual. Throughout this year, we have been introducing our students in all grades to mindfulness, breathing and meditation to help students learn how regroup as opposed to reacting with conflicts.

I hope everyone found peace during our break and everyone is ready to take on the rush of the following six weeks as we race to the end of yet another school year. On Friday at 7pm we will be honoring our Mother and Father of the Year (Ms. Janet Rzepka and Mr. Robert Grover). Another very big event for this weekend is our second grade receiving their First Holy Communion on Saturday morning, followed by May Crowning at the Sunday, 9:00 am Mass.

Next Wednesday, our preschool, kindergarten and first graders will have a presentation by Kidzdent about dental health. Also, you will find a form in this week's electronic white envelope in reference to world languages. It will include a list of languages Rosetta Stone offers and for grades three and above students will be able to pick the language of their choice. If the form is not returned to the main office by June 3, 2019 your child will automatically be enrolled into a Spanish class.

As always, in His Peace,

Elena Malinconico
